Bright Outlook for 2016 and Beyond

Welcome

to the first issue of "Currents" for 2016. With the strong economic rebound, particularly in South Florida, Coastal finished 2015 with the largest backlog in our history. This year's upcoming projects along with those underway featured in this issue, provide an even brighter outlook for 2016 and beyond.

In this issue, our cover feature is the Faena Arts District in Miami Beach. Two of the components of the District were built by Coastal for Alan Faena, Faena Group. Faena Hotel was introduced to our local residents and art aficionados during the internationally renowned event, Art Basel in December. Faena House is a luxury high-rise residential tower designed by Sir Norman Foster, with spectacular ocean views.

On the retail front, you will read about Paradise Plaza Phase III, in the Miami Design District, our tenth project built for Craig Robins' Dacra Development and their partner L Real Estate.

In Palm Beach County, Coastal completed the Hilton West Palm Beach Convention Center Hotel more than a month ahead of schedule. Constructed for the Related Companies New York, it provides connecting accommodations and expansion for the Palm Beach County Convention Center.

In the Dadeland Area, Coastal is completing Joya, a rental community and our fourth project for Wood Partners, located just steps away from Dadeland Mall.

Coastal Cares continues to support organizations in our community and in this issue we have focused on two such groups. Homes for Haiti is a faith-based organization that works with churches in Haiti to provide transitional shelter to the many homeless survivors of the 2010 earthquake. We have also highlighted Camillus House, provider of humanitarian services to the indigent and homeless of Miami-Dade County. Last year, we reached out to our suppliers, subcontractors and clients and because of their generosity, were able to continue our long-time support to this organization that is crucial to our community.

We thank you for reading this issue of "Currents" and, we encourage and appreciate your comments and suggestions.

Paradise Comes to the Design District: Paradise Plaza – Miami Design District Phase III

JOHNSTON MARKLEE ARCHITECTS

Miami facade

Coastal Construction is fortunate to continue a valued and privileged relationship in the Miami Design District with Craig Robins’ Dacra Development and their partner, L Real Estate, with the recent award of Phase III of the Master Plan. This phase includes the re-development of another two full city blocks in the already booming venue.

Phase III includes the construction of approximately 120,000 square feet of new luxury shopping in over a dozen architecturally interesting facilities spread throughout the northern sector of the District. The northerly anchor facility, to be known as Paradise Plaza, houses shops and restaurants and will be filled with the art and architecture of many internationally renowned artists and designers. Paradise Plaza will be connected to the recently opened and hugely successful Palm Court via the extension of a mid-block pedestrian passageway known as the Paseo Ponti. The architect of record is SB Architects, Coral Gables.

The Miami Design District, an award winning LEED-ND Gold neighborhood, is known for its green construction, including numerous green rooftops, dotted with enormous mature trees native to South Florida, and art and water features woven into the design elements.

“Coastal has been a major contributor to Dacra’s success for the past 15 years. Together we recently completed the Palm Court area of the Design District and started a major next phase with Paradise Plaza. Coastal is the ideal contractor for the intricate designs we are implementing.”

HOMES FOR HAITI

In January of 2010, a devastating earthquake changed everything for the people of Haiti. Over 250,000 homes were destroyed leaving nearly a million homeless survivors. Today it is estimated that 600,000 people are without adequate shelter and living in incredibly crowded conditions, many still surviving in tents. Homes for Haiti is an organization that provides “transitional homes” that meet or exceed the requirements of the International Hurricane and Earthquake Building Code.

For the past five years, Coastal has lent its support to Homes for Haiti financially, by securing donated supplies from our very generous suppliers and by assisting with the coordination of their efforts. ## CAMILLUS HOUSE

Founded more than 50 years ago, Camillus house has been the primary source of humanitarian services to the indigent and homeless population of Miami-Dade County. Starting as a small overnight shelter, Camillus House now provides food, clothing, shelter, addiction counseling, behavioral, health and job training and health care to the less fortunate in our community. They rely heavily on volunteers and donations from businesses and residents of Miami.

Since becoming involved with Camillus House in 2008, Coastal has donated and helped to raise more than $1 million dollars to assist them in their mission to rehabilitate and integrate their clients into productive members of the general population. If you would like to volunteer or donate, visit their website www.camillus.org
